

Our Wonderful Town of Weston "1792 to Present"

Main Street

The name York, selected by Lord Simcoe for his capital, suggests the origin for the name of our community. Many of our local names, including: Don, Bolton, Humber, Malton, Pickering, Scarborough, Whitby and Weston, are Yorkshire places.

The history of Weston is tied to the history of the Humber River. The Humber was very important to the establishment of Weston and except for our current spring floods, carried much more water than it does today. Even though the river flows less freely, it still follows its old course and is about sixty miles long and has five main tributaries. The river was one of the first explored by the French in Canada. By the middle of the eighteenth century, the Humber had become the most important trading route between the European settlements on Lake Ontario and the Indian tribes of the north.

Logging was one of the first industries in the area. Saw mills supplied timber for Fort York and its ship building. Most of the mills were lost to fire; the first in 1794. The war of 1812 created such a demand for lumber and flour that Joe Holley's mill was busy both day and night.

Just as the river had been important in the early days of Weston, the railway was to play a prominent role in development of the village as a manufacturing centre. On July 1, 1856, the first train from Queen Street West in Toronto to Guelph (46 miles), ran through Weston.

In 1857, with only five hundred residents, Weston started its first grammar school. Originally it was located in an old residence at the corner of King Street and Weston Plank Road, about where the library now stands. In 1858 a brick school building was erected on the south side of King Street at Elm.

The first registered plan of Weston is dated July 18, 1848. It shows both Albion Road (Plank Road) and Church Street. Its presenter, Mr. Stoughton Dennis, later attained international prominence as a surveyor.

When it was incorporated as a village in 1881, Weston had a population of 965. The first reeve was William Tyrrell, a well known architect and builder. Excellent railway facilities, an abundance of water power, and its proximity to Toronto made it an ideal place for industry to locate.

The firm of T.L. Moffat & Sons was established in Markdale in 1882. They quickly earned the reputation as making one of the finest wood stoves in Canada. Business improved for them so much that they relocated to Weston which was in the centre of the large Toronto market.

In 1909, Mr. John Lindsay arrived from Scotland and was so interested in golf that he formed a group. By 1913 a decent golf course was built on the Wadsworth Flats near Joe Holley's mill. By 1920 the club was re-organized and known as "Weston Golf & Country Club".

In 1912, work on the Weston High School was begun. The new modern building was on William Street and as yet undeveloped part of town. Additions were built between 1922 and 1925 and the name was changed to Weston High and Vocational School.

In 1915 Weston became a town. Its first Mayor was Dr. W.J. Chalton. The following year, Canada Cycle & Motor moved from their Toronto plant to their modern plant in Weston.

In the late '40's, the Lions Club of Weston with the help of all residents erected the Weston Arena. In its early years it was used by the Toronto Maple Leafs as practice ice. Indeed, Weston had its Zamboni ice machine many years before the Gardens! Although the arena was flooded by hurricane Hazel, the residents just shovelled it out. Soon after the Lions Club helped raise money for Weston Pool.

In 1967, the Town of Weston was amalgamated into the Borough of York. Although it no longer has its own Police and Fire departments or town council, it still retains its independence. Today the Weston Business Improvement Area and its Board of Management strive to maintain the old town feeling. Every summer there is a farmer's market on John Street and every winter they have their own Santa Clause Parade.

The Central "1932 to Present"

In 1932, Steve Bunda and his brother Chris founded the Central Lunch. When Chris left in the early '50's, Steve's elder son Lou joined the family business. As the business expanded and more tables were added, Lou's brother Tom took his place behind the counter.

In 1968 Lou and Tom licensed the restaurant and added the dining lounge. The brothers still run the Central with the same small town flavour that diners have been enjoying for over 80 years. Thank you!

Please feel free to ask for a copy of the placemat memorabilia.

Thieves Steal $365 From Main St. Restaurant

The Central Lunch, Main St., Weston, was entered on Aug. 10 and thieves stole money from the cash box amounting to $365. Tommy Koboris, cook in the restaurant, who lives above the premises heard a noise downstairs at about 3.30 a.m. and phoned the proprietor of the restaurant, Chris Bunda, to tell him that he suspected thieves were on the premises. Mr. Bunda then phoned the police who immediately came to investigate the matter. Police discovered that entry had been gained by the rear door and that the sum of $365 had been taken.

The restaurant closed at approximately 2.45 a.m. and Mr. Bunda had secured the rear door of the premises, and had locked the screen door adjacent to a shed. Thieves had reached through the screen door and forced two screws from a slide bolt lock. It was from there that they made their way into the kitchen and thence on to the store proper. A small drawer under the cash register at the front of the store had been forced open by a meat cleaver. The money stolen was five and ten dollar bills, one and two dollar bills, loose silver, dimes and nickels all amounting to $365.

P.C. Hanlan is investigating the case.

A loading road built at Lawrence after completion of the team track trucks additional space for and unloading. The express is now separated from the office because of increased business, and Mr. F. A. Coghlan referred from Porquis Junction to take up new duties as press agent in Weston. Mr. Waugh, freight and agent, of the express. Coghlan said that since work in Weston on Tuesday 6, he has found that there is of business to keep him occupied.

The CNR expansion is in the times of the change in the town. This is a town which is to be even further developed as a town from which many new suburbs will spring and new businesses and industries.

WESTON BECOMES "MOIST"

Tom Kavanaugh, 89, had last draught before Local Option

In 1908, the three hotels in the Town of Weston, the Eagle House, the Central and Burk's, were closed by Local Option when the "Drys" won over the "Wets" because there was too much drinking going on in a community with a grand population of 400 men, women and children.

At 12:01 noon Friday, April 19, the Central Restaurant Tavern will officially open the first licensed bar after a dry spell that lasted more than half a century.

Several weeks ago the Weston Times asked if there was a man or woman alive who had bought a drink in Weston before the 60-year drought.

A second generation Weston-lan born of Irish stock, 89-year-old Tom Kavanaugh gave the Central Restaurant a call and informed proprietor Lou Bunda that he clearly recalls the "old days" when a big glass of beer a foot high was five cents. When Local Option forced the hotels to close up their taverns, the drinkers were forced to visit hotels in Thistleton or West Toronto or order a $1.25 keg of beer from Paddy Harris who operated a horse and wagon delivery service.

Drys & Wets Win

In 1908, after the third or fourth vote in 58 years, two parts of a four-part ballot eked out the necessary 60 per cent majority authorizing government controlled beer and liquor stores and tavern dining lounges. By just a few votes however townspeople rejected beer parlours and cocktail bars.

Mr. Kavanaugh recalls that the dries won in 1908 because of the occasional brawl in front of the Central Hotel and because the wets were too lazy to get out and vote to protect the status quo. "Sometimes it was more than your life was worth to walk through town when the Brampton or Orangeville bunch came into town to play horse. There was many a fight I watched and many a fight I kept away from on the streets."

LADIES DIDN'T DRINK

Women were never seen in the pubs in those days — they were a refuge for the men. The last "legal drink" Mr. Kavanaugh ever had was at Burk's Hotel (later renamed the Shamrock) which is situated at the "upper end" of town. It will be torn down in a month or two to make way for new St. Philip's bridge over the Humber River between Weston and Etobicoke. The single-lane horse-and-buggy bridge personally spanning the river simply isn't capable of coping with modern traffic conditions.

GOING, GOING . . .

The Eagle House (Weston Rd. and Lawrence Ave.) will be torn down later this year to make way for a 22-storey apartment tower and commercial complex and the Central, which sat where the present Steinberg's grocery store now stands, was demolished years ago.

Mr. Kavanaugh clearly recalls the owners of the three hotels. John Eagle built and owned the Eagle House shortly before Confederation. He died in the early 1860's. James Little (no relation to Bob Little of Little Bros. Weston Ltd.) owned the Central and Burk's Hotel was owned and operated by John Burk.

In those days there were only a few industries that provided jobs. There was the Widdoughby Woollen Mills behind Wilby Cres. by the Humber River. Crutchshank Carriage Works, Wadsworth Flour Mill near St. Philip's Rd. bridge and Ed May's saw mill at Elm and King Streets.

MARRIED IN 1912

Mr. Kavanaugh and his wife were married June 25, 1912 in

IT'S BEEN A LONG TIME BETWEEN DRINKS: Tom Kavanaugh, 89, will be the Central's first customer to purchase a drink when the ribbon is cut tomorrow (April 19) at noon. Yesterday he inspected Weston's first tavern after the old Central, Burks and the Eagle House hotels were closed by Local Option in 1908. Behind the bar is Tom Bunda, one of "new" Central's partners.

the former St. John's Roman Catholic Church. The couple enjoy excellent health and attend Mass every Sunday at St. Bernard's Church on Lawrence Ave. near Jane St. Tom's father was born on a farm at Lawrence and the third generation of York which is now Lawrence and Dufferin where the present Henry Hotel is located.

In his early years, Mr. Kavanaugh worked in the old woollen mill. Later he worked on the CNR section out of West Toronto and his last job before retirement at 85 was as a grader, packer and hauler at the Canadian Corporated Wool Growers on Jane St.

FAMILY LIVES IN WESTON

The Kavanaugh family of three children and six grandchildren are all within blocks of their 212 Wright Ave. home opposite the Hotel Plant Leo Kavanaugh is an Quenouder. Mrs. Loretta Jones resides on Grafton St. and Mr. Gordon McFadden lives on Queens Dr.

Mr. Kavanaugh boasted that he rarely missed a truck or any of the significant news during all his years in Weston. Why back in 1888 he recalls when George Kennedy from the "lower end" of town came to a council meeting and pulling a piece of wire out of his pocket, told the town and their councilmen.

"Someday, this will light you all up." "Everyone" including myself thought Mr. Kennedy was crazy at the time," said Mr. Kavanaugh, "but the town was wired for electricity."

What will Mr. Kavanaugh's first drink bought legitimately after 60 years be? "I don't know yet, I'll have to see what the new 'Central' has to offer."

Westminster music festival is back by popular demand

Back by popular demand! That's the story behind the encore performance of Happy Harmonies at Westminster United Church, Weston. In take place Friday, April 26.

The fun starts at 8:30 p.m. when the lights go down and the curtains part on a fast-paced festival of frivolous frolics. Producers Betty McMaster, Florence Shaw and Bruce Chapman offer the same spectacular acts and solid musicianship as in the previous two performances a month ago.

Old Red Barn, Dance Contrasts, Gilbert & Sullivan Revue, Tale of Three Cities, Duck Pond Ballet and others, as well as intermission entertainment.

The church choir, sponsors of the event, would like the three producers to step forward and take a public bow.

Miss Florence Shaw, William St. Weston is a legal secretary who makes a Box St. office season's worth of Happy Harmonies and plans to return from Panama in time for the April 26 extravaganza.

Miss Betty McMaster, Penn Ave., Willowdale, is an estate accountant in a Toronto-Dominion Centre office. As chief soloist in the church choir, she has been associated with all versions of Happy Harmonies, and has played the lead in a number of Westminister Gilbert & Sullivan operettas. Miss McMaster has also won several medals in South West Knapton music festival competitions.

This season's production of Happy Harmonies is her first co-producing effort.

Bruce Chapman, Wadsworth Blvd., Weston, is a teacher at Tumpane St. public school in North York. He joined the church choir in 1959 and is a newcomer to Happy Harmonies. Over the past five years he has produced one-year operettas with his school.

Builder offers to erect 240 low rent suites

Metro government has received a builder's proposal for a $2,550,000 low-rental apartment project for elderly citizens which would be located on a three-acre site on the west side of Keele St. in North York north of Sheppard Ave.

The proposal by Noranne Construction Ltd. would provide 240 apartment suites and will include a recreation area off from the central lobby. A Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation 50-year mortgage for $2-million would finance the bulk of the project with the province providing a $120,000 grant and Metro a 50-year $400,000 loan. The proposal is being studied by Metro officials.

Dining lounge has colonial look

THE NEW DINING LOUNGE at the Central Restaurant Tavern was planned, designed and completed by the Ontario Store Fixture Co. Ltd. The decor features stylized arches framed in walnut paneling with wall covering inserts in lipstick-red vinyl. The wall settees have fluted backs in naugahyde regimental red fabrics. The chairs are of old-English design giving a masculine-type atmosphere. The tables are finished in formica Regina walnut with concealed hinged extensions. The floor carpet is of pleasant gold and orange nylon mixture. Fluorescent indirect lighting on the walls and chandeliers tie the decor all together for a comfortable enjoyable dining atmosphere.

OWEN SOUND CONTINUES TO BE DRY . . . BUT WESTON WILL BE DAMP SOON. Carpenters, electricians, plasterers and renovators under contract and direction of ONTARIO STORE FIXTURES LTD are busily engaged building Weston's (soon to be opened) dining lounge and tavern at the Central Restaurant. Target date is set for the middle of April in the year 1968. This will end the 60 year dry spell since the last time you could buy a drink in Weston . . . (legitimately that is). The Bunda family who have been Restauranters at the same location since 1932 are looking for a Westonte or any Westontes who last bought a drink legally in the Town of Weston, 1908 or previous.

WESTONIAN WINS LINK'S AWARD

What could be better than one beautiful Bride...but two! The Link is pleased to announce a tie draw in its first "Bride of the Month" contest.

Our first Bride, pictured, is the former Gail Driscoll of Weston who wed Peter Lampard. Gail's was a modern informal wedding and she looked lovely in a royal blue dress with pale pink flowers in her bouquet and in her hair. Following a ceremony at the Church of the Transfiguration, the couple celebrated the occasion with friends at the Central Restaurant in Weston.

The Brides will receive an inscribed silver goblet from The Link, as well as mementoes and good wishes from The Monkey Tree, The Wedding Centre, The Nail Niche, Perfume Originals and Jafra Cosmetics.

See page 8 for our second Bride.
